

User Stories:

THE BIG GOAL

As a user of Rent-It, I'd like to be able to browse what people near me are offering up for rent. The core of rent-it is that every item must be rentable. It is optional to rent-to-buy, or to be able to buy an item, but every item must be rentable.

we don't really need to separate sellers from renters (terminology already confusing enough) everyone is a user that could also be a seller or a renter. so each story can be "as a user offering items for rent" or "as a user renting an item..."

*Updated with this blue color on March 2nd by Helen to reflect the progress and what is going to be done this week (last week of coding and finalizing the project). Some user stories got taken out..

Note: The removed user stories had the lowest priority. The client was informed by those priorities at the beginning of the quarter and they were approved by them. Whatever is no longer needed got verified with the client and they approved the final changes as of March 2nd.
